

Table of Contents

'Nobody to pick from.' How opioids are devastating the workforce in Eastern Kentucky.

By Bill Estep

bestep@herald-leader.com

June 27, 2018 11:34 AM

Manchester

The pickings have gotten slimmer when Mike Bowling needs to hire someone for his convenience stores in London and Manchester, where he also has a tobacco store.

"This is the hardest I've ever seen getting workers and keeping workers," said Bowling, who has been in business 18 years. "You just ain't got nobody to pick from."

It's clear to Bowling that Kentucky's drug crisis has affected the workforce, causing higher turnover, bringing additional costs to train new employees and fueling employee thefts.

Recent research bears out that the state's high use of painkilling drugs called opioids appears to have reduced the labor pool.

Read more here:

<https://www.kentucky.com/news/state/article213189309.html#storylink=cpy>

Last updated on July 02, 2018.

Print

Table of Contents

NEWS

News & publications

The news about recent activities for needed peoples.

More News

23 Oct 2025

A New Home and New Opportunities for Service: Terri's Journey with AppalReD Legal Aid

When Terri Buskey moved to Kentucky two years ago, she knew she wanted to...

Continue Reading about A New Home and New Opportunities for Service: Terri's Journey with AppalReD Legal Aid

21 Oct 2025

Why Boo Shea Still Shows Up for Justice: Even in Retirement

This Celebrating Pro Bono Week, we're celebrating Beverly "Boo"...

Continue Reading about Why Boo Shea Still Shows Up for Justice: Even in Retirement

PDF downloaded from <https://www.ardfky.org/node/238/nobody-pick-how-opioids-are-devastating-workforce-eastern-kentucky>