

'Nobody to pick from.' How opioids are devastating the workforce in Eastern Kentucky.

By Bill Estep

bestep@herald-leader.com

June 27, 2018 11:34 AM

Manchester

The pickings have gotten slimmer when Mike Bowling needs to hire someone for his convenience stores in London and Manchester, where he also has a tobacco store.

“This is the hardest I’ve ever seen getting workers and keeping workers,” said Bowling, who has been in business 18 years. “You just ain’t got nobody to pick from.”

It’s clear to Bowling that Kentucky's drug crisis has affected the workforce, causing higher turnover, bringing additional costs to train new employees and fueling employee thefts.

Recent research bears out that the state’s high use of painkilling drugs called opioids appears to have reduced the labor pool.

Read more here: <https://www.kentucky.com/news/state/article213189309.html#storylink=cpy>

Last updated on July 02, 2018.

Print

Table of Contents

NEWS

News & publications

More News

6 Mar 2026

House with roots coming out of the bottom

AppalReD Legal Aid offering free estate planning, title clearing clinics

(WYMT) -AppalReD Legal Aid is hosting free legal assistance clinics offering...

Continue Reading about AppalReD Legal Aid offering free estate planning, title clearing clinics

4 Mar 2026

Photo of Rosenberg in a gray suit

KY lawyer John Rosenberg receives national honor for his commitment to justice

Excerpted from The Kentucky Lantern's February 23rd online edition.Kentucky...

Continue Reading about KY lawyer John Rosenberg receives national honor for his commitment to justice

16 Jan 2026

Disaster Preparedness Clinics

AppalReD is helping with the paperwork side of disaster preparedness during an...

Continue Reading about Disaster Preparedness Clinics