Table of Contents

Eastern Kentucky health stats are gloomy. Why are these 'bright spots' doing better?

By Bill Estep

bestep@herald-leader.com

July 24, 2018 07:20 AM

Whitley City

The public library in McCreary County has books, of course, and reading programs for young people and computers for people to access the internet.

But it also provides information on substance abuse, hosts healthy-cooking classes and diabetes workshops, puts on book walks that combine reading and exercise for kids and helps patrons research health issues.

Director Kay Morrow, a social worker by training, said it's important for the library to be a community resource that's more than a collection of books.

Read more here:

https://www.kentucky.com/news/state/article215252635.html#storylink=cpy

Last updated on July 24, 2018.

Print

Table of Contents

NEWS

News & publications

The news about recent activities for needed peoples.

More News

23 Oct 2025

A New Home and New Opportunities for Service: Terri's Journey with AppalReD Legal Aid

When Terri Buskey moved to Kentucky two years ago, she knew she wanted to...

Continue Reading about A New Home and New Opportunities for Service: Terri's Journey with AppalReD Legal Aid

21 Oct 2025

Why Boo Shea Still Shows Up for Justice: Even in Retirement

This Celebrating Pro Bono Week, we're celebrating Beverly "Boo"...

Continue Reading about Why Boo Shea Still Shows Up for Justice: Even in Retirement

PDF downloaded from https://www.ardfky.org/node/241/eastern-kentucky-health-stats-are-gloomy-why-are-these-%E2%80%98bright-spots%E2%80%99-doing-better